

Dr. Marjorie Chun died in 2000.

This fall, she'll build a chapel in the hospital where she worked.

Although Dr. Chun did not practice at Broadlawns Medical Center, she had much in common with our dedicated medical staff. She practiced the science of medicine and she was also a woman of faith. To help her hospital treat body and soul, she funded a chapel at her community hospital with a gift in her estate plan. Thanks to physicians like Dr. Chun, patients and their families will have a quiet space in which to seek peace.
