

Did You Know?

Broadlawns Medical Center is opening an Amputation Prevention Center, designed to reduce the number of lower limb amputations in the Greater Des Moines area and throughout the state of Iowa. Lee C. Rogers, D.P.M., a leading expert in surgical limb salvage, will head the new specialty center. Lower limb amputation is all too often the outcome of diabetes, a chronic disease that affects about 200,000 Iowans. The Center is now accepting new patients and will offer both inpatient and outpatient services. For more information and to view the related press release, please visit our Website at www.broadlawns.org.

This is a Fact of Life!

